Rumor Mill

Just to correct a rumor that has been making the rounds, Dana Point Marina Company's General Manager Doug Whitlock, has not retired, nor does he have any plans to retire in the near future.

Stow Yer Dinghies—Fall Cleanup

After Memorial Day, the marina initiates a ramped-up enforcement of marina rules to ensure docks are clean and clear for emergency access and that small boats (inflatables, dinghies, kayaks and paddleboards) are stored properly. We have new racks for small boat storage should you choose that option. Wet storage spaces are also available in some locations.

Marina Website

- We just added a "Helpful Links" page to the danapointmarina.com website for additional harbor related sites and information.
- A reminder that the marina waitlist is posted on the website. For privacy, each applicant is listed by account number, not by name. If you don't know your account number, contact the Marina office. Note that the website updates the waitlist only once a month. More current information on waitlist status is available at the Marina office.
- The website has a full copy of the Boat Slip License Agreement, Rules and Regulations, and other forms and information.

Helpful Hints

Sea Lions - We seem to have a handle on the sea lion issue in the marina through the use of aggressive, yet harmless deterrents. To help us keep the pesky critters to a manageable degree, please do not feed sea lions, fish, or clean fish in the harbor. Your neighbors will thank you! If you encounter sea lion issues, please notify the Marina office right away.

Dock Carts - We frequently find dock carts in remote areas far from the harbor and being used for all sorts of non-boating purposes. To keep dock carts secure for boater use, it is highly recommended that you return the dock cart to the dock after each use and lock the dock gate!
